Fujirebio Diagnostics Named Life Sciences Company of the Year
Eastern Technology Council Honors Malvern-based Company at Gala Awards Ceremony

MALVERN, Pa. December 10, 2009 – Fujirebio Diagnostics Inc., a Malvern-based diagnostics company, was named Life Sciences Company of the Year by the Eastern Technology Council at a gala dinner held at the Hilton Hotel in Philadelphia on Thursday December 3, 2009.

The Eastern Technology Council is the Philadelphia region's largest technology and life sciences trade association. Known as "The Academy Awards" of the Technology and Life Sciences Community, the awards are a 17-year tradition of the council. The annual gala honors the region's top technology and life sciences companies and entrepreneurs. Nominees were evaluated on financial performance, innovation, corporate culture, and the ability to form genuine partnerships. More information about the Eastern Technology Council can be found at <http://www.easterntechnologycouncil.org>.

"We're grateful for the Eastern Technology Council's recognition of Fujirebio Diagnostics as a leader in the Life Sciences community" said Paul Touhey , Chief Executive Officer and President. "This award is an affirmation of our strategy, execution and performance and especially our team's commitment to delivering innovative biomarkers to the doctors and patients who depend on us."
